mex-mex Restaurant

This is the Mexican cuisine we have enjoyed since childhood, following the methods of our mothers and grandmothers before us.

Mexico's cuisine is regional. The food we serve is an exceptional mixture of two distinct regions. The south-central area is very rich in vegetation and is famous for fiery hot spices and savory "guisos". Conversely, the northeast is arid, much like west Texas and enjoys the staples of charcoal grilled steaks and succulent tacos.

Our restaurant is based on family tradition and taste-- for good food, cooked with pride and served with hospitality. We welcome you and your guests, enjoy your meal.

Salud,

Many of the Chile peppers you see in our menu may be new to you. Many people assume that all peppers are very hot. However, just like apples that vary in color and sweetness, peppers vary in flavor, texture and spiciness.

We would like to introduce to you some of the peppers we import from Mexico and highlight as part of our extensive menu and give you an idea of what you may expect when ordering.

Peppers	Description	Heat Scale
Poblano	Compact texture with variable amount of heat, with full green-bean flavor. Herbal notes reminiscent of flat leaf parsley. Used for Chile Rellenos and served with our fajitas	3 to 5
Ancho	Sun or force-dried chile poblano. Earthy fruit flavor, mostly roasted then rehydrated. Rarely the main ingredient, but a very nice complement used in our Mole Poblano and Mancha Manteles sauces	3 to 5
Guajillo	The most versatile of our dried chiles. The low heat scale enables us to use its rich juicy, tomato flavor in many dishes, from tamales to our most common marinades (cabrito and pastor)	2 to 3
Chipotle	A dried smoked jalapeño is spicy and rich in flavor. Smokey flavor is great as sauce (Carnitas con Chipotle) or sautéing (Pescado San Jose)	6 to 8
Pasilla	The dark chocolate colored puree of this dried pepper has a tangy dried tomato flavor, with a low level of heat. Great for guisos (Puerco Pasilla)	3 to 5
De Arbol	This dried pepper is very similar to the peppers found in spicy oriental dishes, used mostly as a complement with other peppers to make sauces like Chimilugi.	3 to 4
